

WEATHER HOLD DISCLAIMER

As wine is a perishable product, our company cannot guarantee the condition of orders being shipped during extreme temperatures, nor can we guarantee delivery dates or times. As a result, we are not liable for unforeseen delays or missed delivery attempts; should these instances occur, there is a greater risk for damage due to prolonged exposure. By requesting to bypass a weather hold advisory, the customer accepts full responsibility for the condition in which the wine arrives and understands replacement bottles will not be granted for damaged bottles.
